"Labor councils generally have announced they will not take part in the prearranged election. But when I have seen shameful editorials upholding that election, I have said to myself: I do not expect to stick the life out of my words, nor do I want anyone to condemn me. I shall join the pacifists in any wild mental gyrations."

"Uncle Sam has just one friend—Uncle Sam."

Col. Roosevelt came to the city having the second largest German-American population in the country to-day to define "hyphenation."

A tremendous, cheering crowd greeted the Colonel at the Union Station. The people gathered about him and he went through it with a rush. Police lines outside the train shed gates held back the throng through the two-block midway to the street and Roosevelt hurried forward, stumbling into a refuse can as the crowds behind pressed against him. Policemen ran to keep up with him. Another crowd was waiting him at the Planter's Hotel.

There he held a reception and was guest at a breakfast. Later he addressed the Business Men's League at the Merchants' Club. His principal speech of the day was delivered at a luncheon tendered him at the City Club.

Moral treason to the United States was charged by Roosevelt in this address against German-Americans who seek to make their Governmental representatives act in the interests of Germany rather than this country. He characterized the German-American Alliance as "an anti-American alliance," but added that he believed its members "not only do not represent but scandalously misrepresent" the great majority of real Americans of German origin.

Urging the motto "America for Americans," for all Americans whether they were born here or abroad, the former President declared that "the salvation of our people lies in having a nationalized and unified America, ready for the tremendous tasks of both war and peace."

"I appeal to all our citizens," the Colonel said, "no matter from what land their forefathers came, to keep this ever in mind, and to shun with scorn and contempt the sinister intrigues and mischief-makers who would seek to divide them along lines of creed, of birthplace or national origin."

In this connection he alluded to an utterance by the Kaiser, saying: "His Majesty, the German Emperor, is quoted in the press as stating to a member of a New York Schutzverein, who was introduced as a German-American: 'What do I hear? I know no such people. I know only Germans and Americans. You can have no divided loyalty.'"

Col. Roosevelt said he came to St. Louis to speak on Americanism—to speak of and condemn the use of the hyphen "whenever it represents an effort to form political parties along racial lines or to bring pressure to bear on parties and politicians, not for American purposes, but in the interest of some group of voters of a certain national origin, or of the country from which they or their fathers came."

EQUALITY AGAINST NATIVE AMERICAN OF WRONG KIND.

He was equally against the native American of the wrong kind and for the immigrant of the right kind, the former President declared, but the immigrant who did not become in good faith an American "is out of place" in the United States. He said each nation should be judged by its conduct and that the United States should oppose encroachment on its own rights whether Germany, England, France or Russia be guilty of misdeeds.

"The effort to keep our citizenship divided against itself," the Colonel continued, "by the use of the hyphen and along the lines of national origin, is certain to breed a spirit of bitterness and prejudice and dislike between great bodies of our citizens. If some citizens band together as German-Americans or Irish-Americans, then after a while others are certain to band together as English-Americans or Scandinavian-Americans, and every such banding together, every attempt to make for political purposes a German-American alliance or a Scandinavian-American alliance, means down at the bottom an effort against the interest of straight-out American citizenship, an effort to bring into our nation the bitter Old World rivalries and jealousies and hatreds."

"What I have been striving for a year and three-quarters to do is to protect against the upgrowth of this utterly un-American spirit, which means, if successful, division and impotence in our national life, the breaking up of our unity as a nation, the severance of our citizenship along the bitter lines of old-world antipathy."

Pointing back along his own career in public and private life, Col. Roosevelt cited numerous examples of men who, associated with him as officeholders or soldiers, were descendants of foreigners but who he declared were in every sense real Americans.

"I would condemn as strongly the actions of any of our people who sought to make this country subservient to England as I now condemn those who seek to make it subservient to Germany. Such men are not merely un-American; they are anti-American to the core, and unfit to be citizens of this Republic."

"I believe that the men thus acting not only do not represent but scandalously misrepresent the great majority of real Americans of German origin in the case of the Lusitania, the Meuse as far as the height at the Chattanooga station, were annihilated by our fire."

"On the right bank of the river there has been intermittent artillery fighting."

"In upper Alsace the enemy, after an intense preparatory artillery fire, attacked our positions at a point about 1,200 yards to the east of Sepy. They secured a footing in some of our trenches, but they were at once driven out by our counter-attack."

BERLIN, May 31 (by wireless to Sayville).—German troops operating in the Verdun region, west of the Meuse, have been successful in clearing the southern environs of Cumieres village of the French who were holding on there, the War Office announced to-day. Nearly 1000 prisoners were taken.

The capture on May 29 of a naval gun and 18 machine guns during the fighting in Caurettes wood was also announced. The text of to-day's statement by German army headquarters is as follows:

"Enemy torpedo boats that appeared off the coast were driven back by our artillery fire. Lively firing is in progress between La Basee Canal and Arras."

"German patrols were successful in enterprises near Neuve Chapelle and to the northeast of that place. Thirty-eight British, among whom was one officer, were taken prisoner and one machine gun was captured."

"On the left bank of the Meuse, the bushes and hedges south of the village of Cumieres were cleared of the enemy. Three officers and 88 men were taken prisoners."

"During our attacks on May 29 we captured in Caurettes wood one naval gun, 18 machine guns, a quantity of mine-throwers and much other material. The artillery action has been extremely spirited on both banks of the Meuse."

"It would be possible," he declared, "to turn our entire administration from President down with men of German blood into such unpromising Americanism that every good American could follow them with wholehearted loyalty."

REPRESENTS MORAL TREASON TO THE REPUBLIC.

"I hold it an outrage and a violation of every principle of true Americanism," he continued, "to discriminate against such a man (the American of foreign parentage) because of the land from which he or his parents came, or because of his creed. But I hold it no less an outrage for him to act in our domestic politics not as an American, but as an American with a qualification; as an American who has some un-American interest to serve some foreign country to serve because of his ancestry. The man who thus acts is the hyphenated American."

"This is not a mere abstract question which I am discussing. At this very moment it is blazoned forth in the public press that branches of the German-American Alliance, so-called, in different parts of the country, are attempting to coerce timid and unscrupulous politicians by threatening to vote against them, or by actually voting against them, when the German-American Alliance regards their action as unsatisfactory from the standpoint, not of the United States, but of Germany. These branches of the Alliance openly take the ground that they intend to shape American politics in the interest, not of the United States, but of Germany. The German-American Alliance of Pennsylvania, for instance, as reported in the public press, states that it intends to show 'the leaders of the nation' that they have to deal with a united German-American vote."

"Such a statement represents moral treason to the Republic. Branches of the German-American Alliance in other parts of the country have used practically the same language. The Alliance has put forth no programme affecting America. The programme is that it wishes American citizens to vote in one affecting Germany and only Germany. I do not in the least object to it because it denounces me. It has denounced Mr. Wilson as often and almost as severely. One of its favorite forms of denunciation includes Mr. Wilson, Mr. Root and myself as equally to be opposed in the interest of Germany."

"It is moral treason to the United States for any of its citizens to act and to seek to make their governmental representatives act, not with reference to the interests of the United States but of some foreign power. The German-American Alliance is, in practice, an anti-American Alliance. Any such political organization, whether German-American, Irish-American or English-American is not a healthy element of the body politic. SCANDALOUSLY MISREPRESENT REAL AMERICANS."

"Any body of our citizens has a perfect right to oppose any man or cause which it deems to be a difference of judgment concerning American problems; but it has no right to deal with American public servants or American public men on the basis of the interests of some foreign power. The men who so act are disloyal to the United States, and I say this just as quickly of men trying to act for England or France as I say it of men trying to serve Germany. I condemn the American citizen who acts as an 'English-American' just as strongly as I condemn the American citizen who acts as a 'German-American.'"

"If France had subjugated Belgium I would condemn her just as strongly as I have condemned Germany. If Britain had sunk German passenger vessels and taken the lives of hundreds of American men, women and children, as German submarines did in the case of the Lusitania, the Arabic and other vessels, I would have condemned any 'English-American' who excused the act as unhesitatingly as I have condemned and now condemn the 'German-Americans' who now defend or apologize for the actions of the German submarines."

"I would condemn as strongly the actions of any of our people who sought to make this country subservient to England as I now condemn those who seek to make it subservient to Germany. Such men are not merely un-American; they are anti-American to the core, and unfit to be citizens of this Republic."

CANDIDATES' AGE FACTOR IN CLUB WOMEN'S ELECTION

All-Day Balloting in Ten Rooms Under Guard of Watchers.

Age—that horrid thing which most women spend the better part of their lives trying to conceal—played a mean trick to-day on the delegates to the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs by marching into the Seventh Regiment Armory and taking a prominent part in the proceedings attendant upon the election of officers. Whether Mrs. Joseph Evans Cowles of Los Angeles, Cal., or Mrs. Samuel B. Sneath of Tiffin, O., rival candidates for the presidency, is chosen to head the organization the fact remains that the number of years each has been among those present, quite as much as her efficiency and fitness, will figure in her selection.

Publicly all the delegates asked about this element in the election decried its entrance into the proceedings; privately many of them admitted that, "while she is a charming woman, she is altogether too old," this statement being passed out by the supporters of both candidates. Mrs. Sneath's age is said to be sixty and Mrs. Cowles's forty-eight. As the day wore on these figures grew apace.

The election proceeded smoothly. About half of the 2,000 delegates who are expected to vote had cast their ballots by 1 o'clock. The ballot boxes were stationed in ten rooms on the third floor of the armory, six or seven States voting to a room, the exceptions being New York, Massachusetts and Illinois, each of which, owing to the size of the delegations, having a room to itself. While these three States will control the election, they offered no candidates for the presidency. A secret ballot, a yard long and about half a foot wide, was used. The Evening World man was surprised to find watchers clustered about the ballot boxes just as if men were holding the election.

"Don't you trust each other?" he asked one of the election officers. "Certainly," came the smiling reply. "But—there is no law, there's no use taking any chances!"

In one of the voting rooms at noon a delegate tried to squeeze her lettuce sandwich into the ballot box. She was sent to the kitchen to get her ballot. One of the inspectors caught her ballot arm just in time.

John O'Connell, former Warden of Sing Sing prison, was the principal speaker at the morning session. His remarks on prison reform were warmly applauded. Mrs. Percy Pennington of Texas, presided at this morning's session and Mrs. James W. Hemlock of Concord, N. H., took the chair in the afternoon. It was expected the result of the election will be known this evening, the polls, which have been open since eight o'clock this morning, closing at four this afternoon.

If the delegates confess to being tired out, in a room set apart for the convention exhibit two sweet-faced old ladies slept peacefully this morning all untroubled by the sign "Natural Resources" just over their heads.

The village were successful in the beginning in driving us back in the direction of the Chattanooga station, but a spirited counter attack made it possible for us to force the enemy back to the outskirts of the village of Cumieres."

June Roses Are Now Blooming for Aranyi-Converse Wedding

Although the date of her marriage has not yet been announced, another June bride will be Miss Grove Vail Converse, daughter of Mrs. G. Vail Converse of No. 34 West Fifty-ninth Street, whose engagement to Mr. George T. Aranyi was recently made. Mr. Aranyi, who lives in New York, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Maximilian Aranyi of Budapest, Hungary. Miss Converse is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen Vail and has spent much of her life abroad, where she mastered music, making her debut two years ago.

DOCTOR CHLOROFORMED HIS WIFE, STABBED HER, THEN PHONED POLICE

She Was Unfaithful, Says Dr. Einterz, of Young Woman Who Is Dying.

Lieut. O'Connell, on desk duty at the Vernon Avenue Station, in Williamsburg, and Coroner Ernest Wagner of Brooklyn were informed by telephone at 2 o'clock this afternoon that Dr. Samuel Einterz had killed his wife at his home, No. 709 De Kalb Avenue. The information was sent by the doctor in person.

Patrolman Farrell and Detective Nofsky were sent to the doctor's home. They found him in the reception room smoking. He advised them to step into a bedroom which he indicated and there they found Mrs. Einterz, a pretty woman, twenty-one years old, unconscious on the bed and bleeding from two bad wounds in the left breast. She was sent to St. John's Hospital in a dying condition.

"I chloroformed her when she was asleep," said Dr. Einterz, "and tried to smother her with a pillow. Then I stabbed her twice with a scalpel. I have been married three years and have a son two years old. She was unfaithful, and I couldn't do anything but kill her."

The doctor was arrested. He is twenty-six years old and had a good neighborhood practice.

HOW BRITAIN PREPARED.

Film Shows Way Recruits Are Made Ready for Front.

The film, "How Britain Prepared," which is being shown at the Lyceum Theatre, Forty-fifth Street near Broadway, is a stirring representation of the work and strain confronting a country unexpectedly thrust into a world war. The film was prepared under the sanction and direction of Arthur J. Balfour, Lord Kitchener and David Lloyd George and gives in detail scenes of the training camps and manoeuvre grounds on which new enlisted British soldiers are made ready for the front.

The building of a battleship is followed from the laying of the keel to the raising of the commission flag, and there are also pictures showing a submarine in action from inside the hull and on the surface.

WILSON CONFERS WITH LEADERS ON CONVENTION PLANS

James or Kern May Be Permanent Chairman if Clark Cannot Act.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Plans for the Democratic convention at St. Louis and the ensuing campaign were discussed by President Wilson to-day with Representative Doremus of Michigan, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee; Norman Hapgood, an organizer of the Wilson Non-Partisan League, and Senator Taggart of Indiana. Between now and convention time the President is expected to devote much attention to politics.

Selection of a permanent Convention Chairman was discussed. Speaker Champ Clark was the first choice of the President, but it now seems that Mr. Clark may not go to St. Louis. Senator James of Kentucky and Senator Kern of Indiana are among those suggested for the place in case the Speaker finally declines.

While friends of Vice President Marshall believe there is no doubt that he will be renominated, they are not urging the President to take a stand on the question, because there are other candidates, notably Gov. Major of Missouri.

The plan of the Convention managers is to have Alabama give way to New Jersey, when the roll is called for the nomination of Presidential candidates, so that John W. Westcott, who has been selected by President Wilson to nominate him, may immediately make his speech. A motion to close nominations then would be in order.

121 NEUTRAL SHIPS SUNK BY SUBMARINES

More Than One-Half Belonged to Norway and Only One Was American.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Official figures published by the British Embassy show that up to the end of April neutral nations had lost 121 ships sunk by submarines. Although the State Department has had a vast amount of diplomatic correspondence on this subject in the past, it appears the name of only one American ship—the Leelanaw—sunk July 25 last year. Norway was by far the heaviest sufferer, with 162 ships lost. Denmark lost 22; Sweden 20; Holland 7; Greece 5, and Spain 4 ships.

LONDON, May 31.—One hundred and ninety-five neutral ships, loaded with goods from Scandinavian countries for the United Kingdom, have been captured by the Germans and taken into German ports since October, 1914. This information was given to-day by Thomas J. McNamara, Financial Secretary of the Admiralty, to a questioner in the House of Commons.

HITCHCOCK DENIES TALK ON HUGHES ACCEPTANCE

Declares What He Said Was, No Man Could Refuse a Presidential Nomination in Times Like These

CHICAGO, May 31.—Frank H. Hitchcock, former Postmaster General, who has been in Chicago for several days working in behalf of Justice Charles E. Hughes, whose friends desire him nominated by the Republican National Convention for President, to-day issued a statement denying that he ever said Mr. Hughes would accept the honor if tendered him.

"Among questions asked me on my arrival here was whether Justice Hughes would accept the Republican nomination for President," said Hitchcock. "My reply was that no man could refuse a Presidential nomination tendered by his party in times like these, and particularly if the party felt that he was the man above all others who could unite its divided forces and lead them to victory."

Charles D. Hilles, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, denied emphatically to-day a published report that he had called Justice Hughes over the long distance telephone in an effort to learn whether Mr. Hitchcock represented him.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Justice Hughes, seated in the library of his home, has his finger on the justice throttle and is seeing to it personally that his secretary commits himself in no way regarding the Justice's views on the Presidency.

All inquiries, regardless of their nature, received from the Hughes secretary the same response: "There is nothing to say." If the inquiry calls for a direct "yes" or "no" answer, for instance, in the case of a rumor that Justice Hughes is preparing a public statement, his secretary breaks the telephonic connection, presumably for a consultation with Hughes himself. The answer comes a moment later.
